Thermal Camera Leads Firefighters to Hot Spots

Tyler Hundt, Firefighter/EMT, holds a thermal imaging camera (far left) then the camera depicts the "heat signature" (98.6°F) of Captain Dustin Michael, Love County EMS Fire Training Officer.

What is It?

Bullard TI Commander Thermal Imaging Camera, acquired in 2009.

Who's Using It?

Fire and rescue responders of Love County EMS-Fire Brigade at Station 2, WinStar Casino, use the camera to spot smoldering fires inside a wall or detect overheating electrical wiring.

How It Works:

"Thermal" means heat. The camera detects heat. Firefighters pointing the camera through darkness or smoke can use the temperature readings (from 0 to 1200°F) displayed on the monitor to find the seat of a structure fire or see the heat signature of a visually obscured victim.

About Love County EMS-Fire Brigade:

The fire brigade is an "all-hazards" type of service. They respond to everything from structure fires and wild fires to car accidents and medical calls at WinStar Casino and southern Love County.
